In this version, Ali only had eight thieves

■ Purser M. P. Mears sent us this picture from Pendennis Castle and writes: "Ali the Barber and the Eight Thieves (the other 32 had 'flu) opened last night and turned out to be a staggering masterpiece. Costumes were designed and made by Jean Bonner. There were striking performances including that of Adrian Woodgate as slave-in-chief. The show should do well when transferred to New York or the Empire, Scunthorpe."
