

FAREWELL TO SARAH BOWATER

Group personnel said farewell recently to a familiar vessel on the newsprint run, SS Sarah Bowater. Our picture (above right) shows the Sarah spick and span and ready for sea at Corner Brook (her home port) prior to her sale to Kerwin Ship Agencies Inc. These pictures were taken for The Review by Sir William Codrington at the time of the sale

However, before her farewell she was involved in one piece of excitement. At right, she is seen caught fast in pack ice off Cape Anguille on the Newfoundland coast. This was at 10.00 hours on February 25. Happily, at 11.25 hours she was broken out by the Canadian icebreaker John A. Macdonald
