

TRANSFER AT SEA For 34-year-old Capt. Manfred Glauber of the German SS Eilenburg this was the end of the run. As his ship lay hove-to off the west coast of Africa on November 17, the sick captain (suffering from stomach ulcers) was transferred by lifeboat to the mailship Edinburgh Castle for treatment. These pictures (see also our back cover) record how the transfer was effected using boats from both ships. Crew of the mailship lifeboat was: A. Stewart (2nd officer), C. Hood (coxswain; bosun's mate), B. Orr, B. Tully, W. Murray and T. Hayhow. Pictures by B. G. Blake, swimming-pool attendant
